

Professor Saliah-Hassane teaches informatics and computer networks at TELUQ, a Distance Education University of University of Quebec in Montreal (UQAM).

Professor Saliah-Hassane has a PhD in Electrical and Computer Engineering from McGill University in Montreal and a Master of Applied Science degree from École Polytechnique de Montréal, Canada.

Professor Saliah-Hassane has taught at University of Niamey, Republic of Niger (1985-1987) and was Head of Electrical Engineering Department of The Engineering School of Mines, Industry and Geology (EMIG) of the former Economic Community of West Africa in Niamey, Niger (1989-1991)

Hamadou Saliah-Hassane is member of Professional Engineers of Québec (OIQ); of IEEE (Member of the Board of Governors of IEEE Education Society and Chair of its Education Standards Committee) and Member of IEEE Computer Society; of African Engineering Education Association (AEEA).

In 2005 he received the "2005 Achievement Award" from the International Network for Engineering Education (iNEER) for "Research and Innovation on Online laboratories and for the Advancement of International Collaboration". He received many awards and memorials of satisfaction from International Educational and Professional Organizations. In 2012, Professor Saliah-Hassane was recognised with highest academic distinction of "Commander of the Order of Academic Palm" by Republic of Niger, his native country.