

Brief Biography of Temba

John has worked for 5 years at the Ministry of Education, Science and Technology coordinating policy, strategy and implementation of ICT integration programmes in education. Previously, he has served for 12 years at the Teachers Service Commission as a high school teacher and Principal, and later as a senior administrator in charge of quality assurance and standards.

He holds a Masters degree in Education management from University of Leicester, UK and a B.ed Degree from Kenyatta University. In addition, he possesses other qualifications in ICT which includes; Post-Graduate Diploma in African Leadership in ICT (ALICT Course), University of Dublin; Certificate Course in ICT leadership from University of Witwatersrand, South Africa among others. He has attended and participated in international ICT related conferences organized by the E-learning Conference (ELA), Microsoft and UNESCO. He is currently the project Coordinator of the Laptop programme at the Ministry of Education.